Introduction

Palo Alto University (“PAU” or “the University”) is an accredited institution of higher education that is dedicated to education with an emphasis in the behavioral and social sciences; to promoting future innovators and leaders for the benefit of society; to generating knowledge through research and scholarship of the highest level; and to providing services to the community informed by science and scholarship.

The University is committed to providing access for qualified students to all academic programs.

The policies contained in this Student Disability Services Handbook serve as the guidelines under which the University’s Office of Accessible Education delivers services and reasonable accommodations to students with self-identified disabilities and to the extent required by law. This policy applies to all eligible students who seek access to facilities, student programs, activities and services.

Students with disabilities who are interested in attending PAU must complete the regular admission process prior to admission and enrollment at PAU. To be eligible to continue at PAU, all students must meet the qualifications and requirements expected generally of its students, and must be able to perform the requirements of the individual major or program in which they are enrolled.

Commitment to Diversity and Non-Discrimination

PAU is committed to providing qualified students an equal opportunity to participate in the University’s educational opportunities.

PAU does not discriminate in its educational programs or services on the basis of race, color, religion, religious creed, ancestry, national origin, age (except for minors), sex, marital status, citizenship status, military service status, sexual orientation, medical condition (cancer-related or genetic-related), disability, gender identity, and any other status protected by law.

PAU complies with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA). The University provides reasonable accommodations to qualified individuals with disabilities to the extent required by law.

PAU's Office of Accessible Education

PAU's Office of Accessible Education ("OAE") is the office at the University where students who self-identify themselves as having permanent or temporary disability status may direct inquiries for disability services and accommodations.

OAE functions to determine eligibility for student disability services and reasonable accommodations that will provide students with the opportunity for full access and participation in the academic environment.

Intake and Registration

Students with self-identified disabilities who wish to request academic adjustments, auxiliary aids, or other types of accommodations, must complete the intake and registration process which includes: completing a registration form (either online or in person) and presenting appropriate, current documentation to support the student's status as a qualified individual with a disability and the need(s) for accommodation.

During the intake and registration process, students may be asked to participate in a student meeting with the OAE staff (either in person or by Zoom) to enable the OAE staff to make an individual assessment for services based upon the student's expressed needs, the documentation presented, and the requirements under the law. This is an interactive process between the student and PAU. The OAE staff makes the final determination on eligibility for services and any reasonable accommodations that PAU may offer to the student.

Recap: To Register with the Office of Accessible Education:

1. Submit a completed copy of the PAU Office of Accessible Education Registration Form.

Forms are available online at:

<https://www.paloaltou.edu/about/departments-and-offices/student-services/office-accessible-education> or

Students may request forms by emailing oea@palolito.edu.

2. Provide current documentation from a qualified professional that identifies the disability(ies) or impairment(s) that limits a major life activity.

Students requesting disability services must provide adequate documentation of the disability(ies) or impairment(s) that limit(s) a major life activity. Please see below for more information on what constitutes appropriate documentation.

Please be sure to keep the original copy of your documentation of disability status for your own records. Such documentation is your property.

3. Meet with the OAE Staff for the Interactive Process

Students may also participate in a student meeting with the OAE staff (either in person or by zoom or by phone) to enable the OAE staff to make an individual assessment for services based upon the student's expressed needs, the documentation presented, and the requirements under the law.

Documentation of a Disability

In order to register and become eligible for accommodations, students must timely provide appropriate and current documentation of the student's disability(ies) to OAE.

Documentation must be recent enough to demonstrate the current need for reasonable accommodations. If documentation is more than three (3) years old, students may be asked to submit more current documentation.

Documentation must be prepared and signed by a professional, who in the judgment of PAU, is qualified to diagnose and treat the individual for the disability, such as a licensed physician, psychologist, psychiatrist, neurologist, or learning disability specialist.

Documentation must describe any and all functional limitation(s) of the student and must also state specifically how, if at all, the disability and/or related medications or treatments limit current participation in courses, programs, services, or activities at PAU.

The cost of obtaining this documentation is the responsibility of the student. Students must submit the documentation to PAU in a timely manner in order to allow adequate time for processing the requests. What is considered in a "timely manner" will depend on the student's program of study and will be determined by PAU on a case-by-case basis. However, students are encouraged to complete the intake and registration process before their program of study begins so that any accommodations that are to be provided may be implemented at the start of the program of study. If the documentation is incomplete or inadequate to support a requested accommodation in the judgment of PAU, additional documentation may be requested by PAU.

Reasonable Accommodation and Services

Requests for accommodations are considered by PAU on an individual, case-by-case basis. It is the student's responsibility to submit all requests for disability-based accommodations each academic quarter and in a timely manner.

Reasonable accommodations are determined by PAU upon review of the documentation submitted and through an interactive process with the student. PAU will implement reasonable and effective accommodations where appropriate and in compliance with the law. Requests for accommodations that are not supported by appropriate documentation, that would cause an undue hardship to the University, or that fundamentally alter the programs of PAU, may be denied.

Accommodations and services are considered classroom supplements. They are not intended to replace regular course requirements, required course attendance, and accommodations are not a guarantee of a certain grade or success in a particular class. Rather, they are for the purpose of providing equal access to education for students with disability status. Students with disability status are expected to fulfill all academic and course requirements and evaluation standards, as expected of all PAU students.

Accommodations are not provided retroactively. OAE will not provide accommodations for academic work that is completed before a student registered and became eligible for student disability services/reasonable accommodations.

Possible forms of accommodations that may be available include:

- Extended time for exams and quizzes
- Notetaking services
- Auxiliary Aids or Services
- Alternative Media Formats
- Tutorial Services
- Recorded/audiobooks
- Allowance of service animals on campus
- Extended time on papers and projects (typically not given on an ongoing basis, but rather as situations arise, e.g., students with acute medical or psychological episodes)
- Allowance of adaptive Equipment and Assistive Devices

Confidentiality of Records

Student disability files, including documentation provided by students and medical providers, are handled with great care in order to protect your personal information and prevent inappropriate disclosures of information.

The OAE files are not part of the student's educational record as defined by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA"). Information about a student's disability is not shared with others without the student's written consent, except on a need-to-know basis and in order for the University to implement the approved accommodations.

If an accommodation has been approved by OAE, OAE will send accommodation letters to student-specified professors or instructors that include a list of approved classroom or other academic accommodations. The nature or name of the disability(ies) will not be disclosed. The letter will only indicate the specific accommodations that have been approved and that are to be implemented for student success.

Service Animal or Assistance Animal Policy

The following information is provided to help define the role and the place of animals at PAU in promoting the safety, dignity, and independence of persons with disabilities.

1. Service Animals are:

"...any . . . animal individually trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of an individual with a disability, including, but not limited to, guiding individuals with impaired vision, alerting individuals who are hearing impaired to intruders or sounds, providing minimal protection or rescue work, pulling a wheelchair, or fetching dropped items."

A service animal is one which is specifically trained to perform tasks that are related to the disability of the person. A service animal does not need to be licensed or certified by a state or local government or a training program. Service animals whose behavior poses a direct threat to the health or safety of others or is disruptive to the campus community may be excluded.

Most service animals working are dogs, such as a guide dog that serves as a travel tool for persons with severe visual impairments or who are blind; hearing dog who has been trained to alert a person with significant hearing loss or who is deaf when a sound occurs; service/support dog that has been trained to assist a person who has a mobility or health impairment with carrying, fetching, opening doors, ringing doorbells, activating elevator buttons, steadying a person while walking, helping a person up after the person falls, etc.; SSigDog is a dog trained to assist a person with autism (the dog alerts the partner to distracting repetitive movements common among those with autism); and seizure response dog is a dog trained to assist a person with a seizure disorder (the dog may stand guard over the person during a seizure, or the dog may go for help).

2. Approval Authority: Students who wish to utilize a service animal must register with OAE and make a request to seek approval from OAE.

3. Responsibilities for Persons with Disabilities wishing to use Service Animals: The service animal's partner is at all times solely responsible for the cost of care, arrangements and responsibilities for the well-being of a service animal as well as any property damage. Service animals on campus must meet requirements for the presence of animals in public places (vaccinations, licensure, ID tags, etc.) mandated by state or local ordinance must be followed. The animal must be in good health. The person with a disability must be in full control of the animal at all times. Reasonable behavior is required from service animals while on campus. The partner must follow local ordinances in cleaning up after the animal defecates. The partner of an animal that is unruly or disruptive (e.g., barking, running around, bringing attention to itself) may be asked to remove the animal from facilities. Animals must have an annual clean bill of health from a licensed veterinarian. Service animals who are ill should not be taken into public areas. Partners with animals that are unclean, malodorous and/or bedraggled may be asked to leave facilities.

4. Areas off Limits to Service Animals: Mechanical rooms, such as boiler rooms, facility equipment rooms, electric closets, elevator control rooms and custodial closets, are off-limits to service animals. Any room where protective clothing is worn is off-limits to service animals. Any room, including a classroom, where there are sharp metal cuttings or other sharp objects on the floor or protruding from a surface; where there is hot material on the floor (e.g., molten metal or glass); where there is a high level of dust; or where there is moving machinery is off-limits to service animals. If a student, faculty, or staff member has an off-campus internship, or other PAU-related activity, then the student must abide by the service animal policy at the off-campus entity. Students are encouraged to inform the OAE before bringing service animals to off-campus internships, or other PAU-related activities that are off-campus so that arrangements and approval from the off-campus site can be acquired.

5. “Emotional Support” Animals: “Emotional support” animals do not qualify as service animals because they are not trained to do specific tasks that help the person deal with the disability. Emotional support animals are for persons’ residences and because PAU does not have residential housing, emotional support animals are not permitted on PAU’s campus, in PAU’s classrooms, or in other areas of the PAU campus. Individuals who utilize emotional support animals are encouraged to discuss the role that this animal has in supporting their disability when engaging in the interactive intake process with OAE staff.

6. Grievances: Any student dissatisfied with a decision made concerning a service animal should follow the applicable Dispute Resolution Procedures. Students should contact OAE. Staff and faculty members should refer to the appropriate handbook or collective bargaining agreement.

Dispute Resolution Process

Students who are dissatisfied with decisions made regarding a student's eligibility for OAE services or the reasonable accommodations that are offered by PAU, may resolve the matter by speaking with OAE staff. If the student is still dissatisfied, the student may submit a written complaint using the grievance procedures as outlined in the PAU Student Handbook.
