This research group (RG) will be the best match for students who are interested in learning to conduct research through every phase from initial literature review through data collection and preparing papers for publication. The RG meets one hour a week during the regular school terms to coordinate collaborative projects and for didactics and discussion about research. Meetings are held at a time that is mutually convenient for RG members.

Current Projects: Here are some of the current collaborative projects. Students can also conduct their own independent projects.

1. Survey of the traumatic impact of race-related stress
2. Trial of IR for Stress for disaster responders in the Philippines

Openings: 2 to 4 new members to join the RG in Fall quarter.

Application Process: Interested students can attend a meeting of the RG during any quarter. Please contact Kate Macia at kmacia@paloaltou.edu to schedule a visit.

Applicants are asked to submit the following items to Dr. Waelde by the regular deadline by email only. Applicants will have the opportunity to interview for the group to discuss the match between the RG and their interests.

1. Curriculum Vitae
2. Brief email discussing past research experience, how and why the student became interested in trauma, dissociation, and PTSD, and a description of specific research and clinical interests in this group. Please do not submit as an attachment.
3. A writing sample, which can be a paper submitted for a class while a student at PGSP.

Recent Trauma-Related Publications (those with student coauthors marked by *):

Recent Trauma-Related Presentations (those with student coauthors marked by *):

